County Told To Cut Firefighting

gate getting out of the fire to 30 per cent increase in costs fighting business and leaving it to the state Division of Forestry instead, county administrator John F. Barrows has recommended.

In a memorandum to county supervisors, Barrows said his recommendation was sparked by recent federal legislation which will make it more expensive for the county to have its own fire department.

That legislation, part of the new minimum wage law, specifies that firemen shall have a maximum work week of 60 hours. The county firemen currently have an 84-hour work week. The new law goes into effect Jan. 1.

"The 28 per cent reduction to a 60-hour week necessitates an equivalent percentage increase in fire fighting personnel to continue the present level of service," Barrow said. That could add about $200,000 annually to the county fire department's $927,000 budget, he said. "It is very difficult for me as county administrator to simply

The total spending program is composed of a $6,685,242 high school district budget, up about $61,000 from this year, and a $6,044,359 elementary school district budget, up about $107,-.31 000.

The budgets are based on estimated income next year of $11,513,532, as compared to income of $11,443,826 this year, Leisey said. Local property taxes raise about 80 per cent of this revenue, he said.

Since income this year "is about the same" as income forecast for next year, both budgets require expenditure of reserve funds, according to Leisey. The high school budget

In addition, funding is provided for expansion of the early childhood education program, upgrading the school transportation system, inservice education and curriculum evaluation and development, among others, he said.

Although the spending programs provide automatic annual step increases for employees, they do not include cost-ofliving pay hikes.

"Obviously, if cost-of-living salary increases are going to be granted, some of this will have to be reduced," Leisey said.

Alioto refused to say anything further about the talks, except that the informant refused to talk unless the mayor himself were present.

"People ought to feel safer on the basis of what we now know." Alioto said.

Alioto said it had been determined that the city's Zebra killings were similar to other murders in the past three years in the cities of Long Beach, Oakland and Sacramento. He said that authorities in all cities and state law enforcement officers were working together on the investigation.

"It's not some individual, but a group of persons," Alioto said. San Francisco police have been operating on that assumption since they tied together the 18 shootings, 12 of which have been fatal.

Alioto, a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said the latest mysterious break in the case came on Thursday afternoon, when the attorney involved took him aside at a campaign appearance to ask if he would be available if his client wanted to talk about the case.

Alioto said he assured the attorney he would, and cancelled his weekend campaign plans after receiving a call that the informer was willing to talk. Alioto said he would also cancel his campaigning Tuesday in case further talks were

Kissinger met today in Geneva with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, co-chairman of the Geneva Mideast peace conference, to try to win Soviet support - or at least hands off - for his efforts in reaching an Israeli-Syrian disengagement agreement.

The Russians have been reported displeased with Kissinger's one-man peace efforts and have been backing Syria heavily. UPI Diplomatic Correspondent K.C. Thaler reported from London today that Russia had sent in a new batch of military advisers to bolster the Russian military position.

The Soviets also were reported to have offered Syria new long and short-term aid, apparently as a counter to the prospects of $250 million in U.S. aid to Egypt. Earlier reports said the Russians had given Syria new SAM9 missiles with multiple warheads

An Israeli military communique said Syria sent MIG17s against Israeli positions on Mount Hermon while MIG21s provided air cover. It said the Israelis downed four MIG21s in an air battle without Israeli loss. Syria said its troops overran an Israeli position on the mount and sent the Israelis fleeing. Damascus claimed an Israeli F4 Phantom jet was shot down by ground fire.

Israel denied any air losses. Military sources said it was the most Syrian planes downed in a single day on the northern front since the October war. A military source said downing of the four MIGs brought to six the total number of Syrian planes shot down over the northern front since the war.

The other two planes, also MIG21s, were downed April 19. Syria claims destruction of 30 Israeli planes since October.

side, from the Syrian side to reach this disengagement agreement.

But he expressed confidence that Kissinger, whom he called "a man of miracles," will succeed in arranging an accord.

Sadat ranged widely over the various issues involved in the Mideast crisis, particularly discussing Egypt's relations with Russia and the United States. His expressions of admiration for Kissinger, whom he usually referred to as "Henry," were broadcast as the secretary began his fifth Mideastern trip since last October's war to seek a peace settlement.

The Egyptian president had nothing but praise for the course of recent American-Egyptian relations. He said Washington's current policy toward the Mideast represented a

Economic

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Nixon administration's final phase of economic controls expire at midnight, but the Senate is expected to make an effort to salvage some form of limited wage-price restraints.

A Senate showdown is expected later this week. But even if the measure - a rider to an appropriations bill - passes, it would still have to clear a hostile House.

The proposed legislation would not authorize the kind of sweeping economic controls Nixon had under the expiring Economic Stabilization Act.

While new controls have no chance of passing before the present controls expire, the idea for standby controls does have some support.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said, "The momentum against controls is such that our prospects may be negative, may be very small, but we have a responsibility to try."

And Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said, "The odds are against us. Nobody seems to want something done, evidently, but the peo-

Rock Concert Cut Short By Violence

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) -The first annual Cherry Blossom Music Festival in Richmond was cut short over the weekend by mass arrests and a court order, and city officials say they won't stand for a return performance next year.

The outdoor concert, scheduled to last for two days at City Stadium, was ended Saturday evening after some 150 persons were arrested, municipal police cars were overturned and burned and youthful music fans scuffled with police.

State Supreme Court justices yesterday let stand an injunction issued the previous night by a lower court judge to block the scheduled continuation of the music festival featuring a variety of rock bands and soul

There will be no more rock concerts of this type in Richmond," City Manager William J. Leidinger declared after the

a 13,000-seat indoor facility. Youths arrested on Saturday faced a variety of charges including drug possession, inciting to riot, assault on a policeman and assault on a police

"We have about 15 different stories as to how it began," said Assistant City Manager D. Brickford Ryder. "One says it was with a 14-year-old girl, another says a policeman got hit in the head. We just don't

At least eight city-owned cars were smashed, overturned or burned. Busloads of police in riot gear were called to the knocked on the door of the woman's apartment at 11:45 p.m. and demanded to be admitted. When she refused, they forced their way inside. She was knocked unconscious after falling against the refrigerator in the kitchen of the apartment and was dragged into the bedroom where she was sexually abused by both men, according to police.

Ryder defended the arrests which apparently angered the crowd, saying officers responded in standard fashion to drug violations.

The woman managed to get free three hours later and burst out a door screaming, attracting the attention of a neighbor who telephoned police.

Tillery and Walker were taken into custody as they were leaving the apartment building, officers said. They offered no resistance.

Invasion Of Privacy In Novato Survey

The City of Novato is soliciting citizens' views about what it needs in the way of parks and recreation, to be considered in drawing up a city general plan.

This is all to the good. But the way Novato is going about it raises some quesitons.

THE NOVATO PARKS and Recreation Department has mailed a 22-page questionnaire to a selected sample of residents. The questionnaire was prepared, as was the method of getting a representative sample, by the Sonoma State College political science department

The first 12 pages of the questionnaire deal with matters bearing on development of a parks and recreation program. Questions ask major recreational interests, whether anyone in family is a horseback rider or a cyclist, which existing recreational facilities the family uses, etc.

On page 13, the questionnaire gets into employment status, hours of work, and — as seems to be considered necessary in every survey of any sort these days — the respondent's annual income. It also asks his race.

What these have to do with developing a parks and recreation program would be hard to say, unless Novato plans to have parks segregated by race or activities restricted to those of certain income levels. We doubt it is considering any such

ON PAGE 15 begins the really strange part of the survey. This is explained as follows by an accompanying form letter:

"The political science department (of Sonoma State College) has included a section of political attitude questions that have been asked in many cities across the United States.'

These ask political preference, whether the respondent voted in the March municipal election, whether he voted for Proposition 1, whether he voted for the Novato flood control bond issue, whether he has ever been a union member, what organizations he belongs to, whether he has been out of work any time in the past two years. And — a very strange one: "Although you are an American citizen, what nationality do you consider your-

THE ACCOMPANYING letter mentions that the questionnaire has a number on it, but says, "This identification is used only so that we can send a postcard reminder to those who have not returned their questionnaires within one week.

But the questions themselves begin on the back of the page which bears the address label. And they conclude on the reverse of the page that bears the

There is thus no confidentiality to the responses. Novatans are asked to answer very personal questions, including how they voted on various issues, in a manner which makes their responses readily identifiable by name.

All this, apparently, is for the benefit of the Sonoma State College political science department — for these questions have nothing to do with developing Novato's parks and recreation program.

By-Election Results Indicate Veto-Proof Congress Assured

Outlook for the Republican party: It's bad. It's even worse than it appears from the five latest congressional by-elections.

The real clue to what lies ahead for the Republicans this fall is not just the loss of seats but the downward plunge in the GOP's percentage of the total vote. In these five congressional districts the Republican share of the vote dropped an average of 19 per cent. Even in California, where the Republican candidate won, the GOP vote declined from 73.9 per cent in 1972 to 43.2 per cent last month.

On this basis, unless something unexpectedly and radically intervenes, it appears a certainty that the Democrats will win a vote-proof Congress in November and then some

Middle-income taxpayers receive the least benefit from the tax deductions and other loopholes and quite possibly have to pay more because of what the IRS cannot collect under existing law.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON: Baby Subsidy

WASHINGTON -Our postwar population growth has been frightening, or should have been, to everybody except real estate developers, soft drink bottlers and rock musicians. West of Denver, new houses climb in geometrical patterns up the foothills of the Rockies, where there was hardly a sign of man the last previous time I drive that road. Same thing west of Baltimore. north of Cincinnati, nearly everywhere in our country

But with more education and more pills, the birthrate has slacked off now to its lowest point since the government started keeping records on it in the early 1900s. Organizations like Zero Population Growth seem to have run out of their reason for being, for if the current continues, sometime in the next century the population will indeed level off, somewhere near 300 million Americans.

Only the most primitive economic nonthinkers, who cling to the old idea that more is automatically better, fail to acknowledge that this is a certifiable good thing. Even the plotters of business graphs for the baby food, baby powder. cereal, toy, soda pop and quick-hamburger industries are sanguine about it, insisting that they prosper in direct proportion to the loose cash supply rather than the birthrate. Environmentalists have to be overjoyed by it, though they understandably will clamor for even more of less.

BUT IT IS MUCH too soon to let up and celebrate

For one thing, the world birthrate is not behaving the way ours is. Population is still increasing about 2 per cent a year. and generally its increase is fastest in those countries least able to feed themselves. Russell Peterson, chairman of the Council on Environmental Quality, said just last week that the world protein shortage is a greater crisis than the oil

For another, even in the United States there is no assurance that the rate permanently is under control. Arthur Campbell, director of the Center for Population Research of the National Institutes of Health, has predicted that the decline is only temporary. Although use of the reliable birth control pill has continued to spread, there is evidence that many women will use it mainly to postpone having children, rather than to significantly reduce the size of their eventual families. Thus the birthrate may turn upward again later in this

AND FOR ANOTHER, although the U.S. government has a pro forma policy of promoting population control, it has a historic habit of subsidizing big families.

It does so by allowing income tax exemptions for each dependent, up to infinity. Although I and virtually all other parents have benefitted by this over the years, that does not mean it is either wise policy or fair taxation.

To question this practice is not entirely novel; one senator, Bob Packwood of Oregon, even had the courage to suggest changing it by law. It is particularly timely now, however, with promises of revisions in the tax code flooding out of Congress. So I refer you to what has just been written by Kenneth P. Veit, president of NON (National Organization for Nonp-arents).

Veit notes legitimately that companies and consumers that use precious national resources should have to bear the cost burden thereof, rather than spreading that burden over users and nonusers alike. Furthermore, space is a limited national resource, and the larger the family, the more space and other resources it uses.

WHY NOT, THEN, use tax policy to direct population growth the same way it is used to speed up or slow down growth in the economy? Why not eliminate personal income tax exemptions, or limit them to two per family, or to two parents plus two children, but no more?

Heresy, I realize.

But starvation already is spreading over increasing areas of the world - and as the sight of dead and hungry children comes into our homes at dinner time theway the war did a few years ago, more and more things that used to be heresy are going to become urgent common sense instead. 1974, Baltimore Sur

Juvenile Hall Better Neighbor Under Yarchin

Being a resident of Lucas Valley and very near Juvenile Hall. I have been most interested in the committee of juvenile justice commission's report and the subsequent publicity.

When we first moved here, our neighborhood was constantly plagued with incidents involving residents of Juvenile Hall, who seemed to be free to roam at will, especially on week ends, around this area. Since Mr. Yarchin took over as superintendent, we haven't heard of one such incident. Mr. Yarchin spoke at our local home and school club meeting and we were very impressed with his calm and sensible approach to the problems of such an institution. His compassion and understanding was quite evident. It appeared to us that he wanted to give the young people in his charge some rules to live by - rules they seem to be crying out for. Most kids today who are required to follow strict rules are envied by those who feel they are given no direction because their parents are too busy or don't care enough. As for the smoking, the way Mr.

Yarchin went about discouraging this

Double Standard Shown In Story On Women

The UPI article on single parents (mostly women) having a hard role was made doubly pessimistic by the very condescending view it took of working women and their "inferior" positions. The fields that were typically encouraged for single women were "operating automatic typewriters" which would not produce enough income to support a family. Stereotyping, again.

Then to say "absolutely no flirting" on the job was incredible. Do employment interviewers say that to men also? Why do they assume that flirting is one-sided, or even has anything to do with job qualifications?

The article also stated that employers feel that single women are looking for a husband, or might leave for higher pay, and should also be checked for emotional stability to be loyal to the employer and be a proper parent. Equality? Are these same standards applied to men also? How heavily rated is the attribute of being a good father compared to his other qualifications for a job?

Double standard? I guess so. I hope other men and women see this as clearly as I did. If a person needs a job and is qualified, that's what's important. Not all the other trivia. NANCY DACUS

Grand Jury Probe Of Water Board Needed

The battle between so-called conservationists and nonconservationist directors of the Water District has reached such a stage that I believe it is impairing the public's right to enjoy an efficiently managed utility service.

Bob Elliot was replaced as an attorney by the brilliant but inexperienced (in water matters) Tom Thorner. Then Bill Seeger was forced to resign. matter dealing with the ferry system. Such investigations in the future will have to be done by the directors themselves, not by the staff, the committee agreed. The decision was a good one, but by no stretch of the Brown Act could the committee justify discussing this matter behind closed doors. The directors simply used the convenient cloak of the act to hide an embarrassing matter.

The chance discovery of this improper use of the act suggests the closed sessions probably conceal far more than just this minor matter. It certainly makes it hard to believe directors when they claim the law is not being violated when they expell the public while they conduct public business.

Maybe they also are discussing what to name the new ferryboats. How about the M.V. Procrastination? Has sort of a British sound, and reminds one of the Sausalito City Council's waffling on the permanent downtown ferry terminal.

that I "undoubtedly would be deluxe vinyl patterned seethrough seat covers on my new car." Besides which, I had two weeks to try them, without charge or obligation, and would also receive, at no additional cost or obligation, a genuine sponge and chamois PLUS an additional surprise that was so neat they couldn't even tell me the free gifts even if I returned the seat covers.

I NEVER DID find out what the free surprise gift was as I didn't buy the seat covers. To be perfectly honest, I've never bought anything from the M. Toeshack Co. of St. Cloud.

In the years since 1967, my Goregeous Bride's also gotten her name a coveted place on the Toeshack list, and some weeks we get duplicate offers, and there are weeks when she gets an offer for a new bedspread and drape combination, and I'll get a money saving offer on a 378-piece do-it-yourself combination tool kit.

In December of 1971, someone misinformed the computer that we finally bought a pair of slacks, and ever since, the computer has been raving about how we handled our last credit obligation, and since we're now preferred friends, sends us even more offers.

TODAY'S LETTER from Toeshack was no exception. "I know you'll enjoy having this exciting Yell and Bowel camera just as much as your slacks purchase from Toeshack

Unless your husband and daughter are the same stubborn breed of cat, they can surely work out a compromise here.

And think on this: if you terminate your marriage, you'll also destroy your daughter's dream. She couldn't possibly go through with a big wedding, knowing it had caused a divorce in the family. Could she?

DEAR HELEN:

I recently started my own business. My wife insists she 'help out" by hiring my secretaries. She turned down one applicant, sight unseen, because (I am pretty sure) the woman gave her age, height and weight, all of which are considerably under my wife's. Then she hired a motherly type who couldn't learn business forms or how to use an electric typewriter, but made me feel like a heel when I had to let her go.

I have never given my wife cause for jealousy - I love her and she knows it - but she's hyped on secretaries, as her best friend lost a husband to one. So she forgets efficiency and makes her choice on dowdiness.

Use Your Head In Buying Home

By ROBERT EDWARDS Christian Science Monitor News Service

Buying a house ranks among the major purchases for a family. It represents a longterm big-dollar commitment in a nonliquid

Yet many buyers select a house and plunk down money without examining the property or alternatives thoroughly. If you are going to live with a house, it makes sense to know what you will be stuck with.

Typically, when a family is uprooted and moved at the whim of corporate management, the husband reports to work at the new location alone. On weekends, he searches the housing market for something better than he left.

A real estate agent chauffeurs him around to houses priced 10 to 20 per cent above his stated limit. When he has picked at least three candidate houses, the company flies his wife out for a weekend of scouting houses - and agonizing. An hour before her return plane takes off, they swallow hard and sign a purchase agreement. They are committed to a house neither knows much about.

A MONTH later, following a seemingly unending stream of paper work, the family moves in. And the flaws in the house, the neighborhood - even the community - begin to surface.

A more logical system requires, first of all, time. The Internal Revenue Service allows up to a year to buy another house with the proceeds from the old house. So, what is the rush? If you buy the wrong car, you can trade it off; not so with a house.

To avoid buying a house that soon requires expensive maintenance or paying more than you should for it, take a little time to sort out alternatives. An organized house-hunting plan involves these successive steps:

When you move to a new locality, rent a house or apartment for up to six months. The time you take renting will allow you and your family to checkout numerous alternatives on your own.

Avoid looking at houses until you have scouted neighborhoods. Instead of depending only on agents, study the city plus several outlying communi-

DIG OUT an area map and locate important elements airport, work location(s), public transportation network, shopping and cultural centers, recreational opportunities, established neighborhoods and new developments.

Since few families live in a house long enough to pay off the mortgage, consider a house's salability. Appraise the trend of a neighborhood. Is it trending up, down or remaining stable? Only when you have picked an up-trend neighborhood that suits your family's life-style should you begin looking at individual houses.

Search through the range of available houses before picking two or three candidate houses for a detailed inspection. Visit open houses on weekends plus those houses available through

Inspect your candidate houses from top to bottom before signing anything. If poking into attics or funace fireboxes is not your bag, hire one of the national firms to inspect one or two houses for condition - not price. MUSIC REVIEW

Opening Great Music Concert Is A Delightful Performance

By SYLVIA L. RUBY Great Music in Great Houses is the title of the concert series. and the opening concert lived up to its name Sunday afternoon with a little help from the weather and the added entertainment of watching the boats on the bay

The setting was the Blanding "Organ House" in Belvedere, and with the view of bay and city we were able to celebrate the opening of the yachting season from an excellent vantage point. The day was beautiful. the wine and hors d'oeuvres plentiful and the music a sheer delight. An enthusiastic audience overflowed the large mu-

Classical guitarist George Sakellariou played the opening half of the program in impeccable form. His pieces ranged from the moody, dark-toned Fandanguillo by Torroba to the cleanly articulated Baroque sound of Bach's prelude and gavotte and from gentle Catalan folk melodies to a bravura introduction and allegro by guitar virtuoso Fernando Sor.

The perfect acoustics of the room allowed Sakellariou the luxury of shading the dynamics to their quietest tones with each nuance audible to the farthest ear (mine). Whether the music consisted of a melody with accompanying patterns or two melodies intertwined he kept the vocal quality of each line enhanced.

The final piece, "Recuerdos de la Alhambra", by Tarrega with its double melody, one a difficult exercise in tremolo, left the audience marvelling at Sakellariou's technique.

After more wine and more hors d'oeuvres we were treated to what was in effect a second concert, this one by three Dominican College students who perform under the name Musica Frivola. Frivolous is the style and the choice of material, but for all their fooling aorund, the talents and abilities of these young artists came clearly through.

Soprano Rebecca Jones sang two coloratura nightingale songs - one the well-known Handel aria, the second an unintentionally campy piece by Alabieff. Miss Jones with violinist Mark Jordan (the nightingale), and pianist Patrick Loomis performed the latter straight, and it became an effective parody of all "bird-call"

Violinist Jordan delivered a rousing rendition of Kroll's Banjo and Fiddle, deftly spinning-off the tricksy effects. Despite the corny meldoy, Jordan exhibited rich tone and pure intonation

His other two solo selections were equally bad works filled with showy techniques: Wieniawski's Scherzo-Tarentelle, and Monti's Csardas. Jordan wandered through the audience for the Csardas, lending a touch of realism to his well-known gypsy serenade played (usually quite badly), by restaurant violinists.

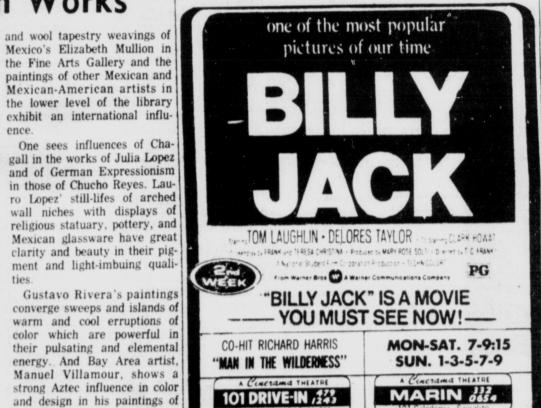

Miss Jones has a light and flexible voice and good comic ability. The "Laughing Song" from Strauss' Fledermaus was joyful and pleasing, "Summertime" from Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess" quite lovely.

Loomis is a fine accompanist. His sensitive timing, and solid rhythmic sense gave a good foundation for the other performers.

For those who wondered why a concert at the "Organ House" did not include any music on that instrument; it had been planned for, but a malfunction of the Organ made it impossible. This is especially unfortunate because today the organ is being dismantled for delivery as a gift to the Oakland Sym-

The next "Great Music in Great Houses" concert will be at the Lester Clark Home in San Rafael Sunday, May 19, 4 to 7 p.m. Proceeds will go to the Dominican Music Center to be held at Forest Meadows this summer.

Growth Law Injunction Is Issued

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - A federal judge today formally issued an injunction against ordinances by the city of Petaluma limiting its growth.

U.S. District Judge Lloyd H. Burke had heard arguments on the case without a jury in January and stated that he was ruling in favor of developers who had challenged a Petaluma ordinance limiting new buildings to 500 a year.

The suit had been brought by the Construction Industry Association of Sonoma County, arguing that such an arbitrary limitation was unconstitutional.

Burke today issued his findings and a declaratory judgment which said the ordinances and resolutions violate the U.S. Constitution. He ordered the city and city officials to refrain from making any numerical limitation "whether definite or approximate" in the future.

Burke also said that his court would retain jurisdiction over the matter and that in the event of future controversies intended to appoint a special master to rule on these disputes in light of his findings.

He said that the parties to the suit may, if they so desire, submit to the court a list of no more than three persons whom they believe qualify to fulfill the position of special master.

The Petaluma City Council has made no decision on whether to appeal Burke's ruling, citing a desire to study first the written decision which by today had not arrived at city hall.

However, councilmen have informally said they hope to take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court if possible, and the city has accepted more than $10,000 in donations from other cities to help defray Petaluma's legal expenses in obtaining a hopefully definitive ruling on municipal growth control poli-

WHY NUCLEAR POWER IS THE SOLUTION TO THE ENERGY PROBLEM.

The electric energy problem here in California is simply a matter of oil and natural gas shortages. The problem is going to plague us for some time to come, unless other forms of energy are used. The solution is to use energy wisely and to build more nuclear power plants. Nuclear plants are safe. They are practical. They are economical. They are environmentally clean. But they take time to build-about

There's no mystery about nuclear power plants. There are 44 operating in the United States; more than that among other nations of the world. There are more than 100 nuclearpowered ships in the U.S. Navy; even more in other fleets. The nuclear industry has hundreds of reactor years of successful operating experience. The technology is proven.

Some people have questions about nuclear power. Some people give incorrect answers to those questions.

We at PG&E have had long experience with nuclear plants. We believe firmly in them. So do other utilities, world-wide, both government-owned and investor-owned. And so does the overwhelming majority of the scientific community.

Brownouts and blackouts can happen here.

NUCLEAR POWER AND THE FUEL SHORTAGE

At present most of PG&E's steamelectric power plants burn scarce and very expensive low-sulfur oil to generate electricity. We will have to buy about 20 million barrels this year and 35 million next year to meet our customers' electric energy needs. Our two-unit Diablo Canyon Nuclear Power Plant, now under construction in San Luis Obispo County. will displace a need for an additional 24 million barrels of oil every year in the future.

Delays in construction schedules of these and other nuclear units-delays, for a variety of reasons, over which utilities generally have little control—have had much to do with bringing about today's electric energy problems in California.

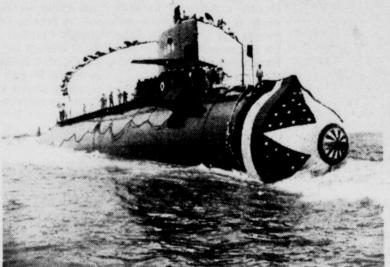

While nuclear power plants cannot solve the problem immediately, they can in time. As more come into service, they will free up large amounts of oil, significantly alleviating the aggravating long-range fuel shortage gasoline and all.

NUCLEAR POWER AND SAFETY

The safety record of commercial nuclear power plants is unmatched in industrial history. Safety systems and their back-up systems function efficiently. There have been no nuclearcaused deaths. Not even a significant injury (For comparison, about 54,000 Americans are killed every year in auto accidents; 3,000 die choking on food; 160 are killed by lightning.)

Actually, fissionable nuclear fuel for power plants is very dilute-so dilute that it's impossible to create an atomic explosion in a nuclear reactor.

With all the safeguards that are built into each nuclear power plant, the chance of a major accident is about one in a million.

Thousands of men work and live safely on nuclear-powered subs.

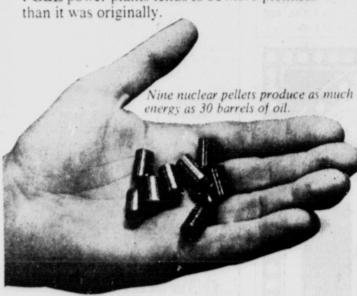

NUCLEAR WASTE. WHAT HAPPENS TO IT?

When nuclear fuel is used, nuclear waste is created. But more than 95 per cent of the original fuel is recycled for re-use. The remaining waste is small - so small that such waste from a large nuclear unit operating for 30 years could be contained in a space no larger than a two-car garage. The waste is radioactive; but is treated as such. Very carefully. Safety first.

Used fuel is sealed in heavilyshielded, leak-tight casks and shipped to a facility which specializes in nuclear fuel reprocessing. Every safety precaution is taken to insure that no leakage occurs. Shipping and handling are carried out under strict regulations of the AEC and the U.S. Department of Transportation. After processing, the residual waste will be solidified and placed in secure, longterm storage under rigid government control.

NUCLEAR POWER PLANTS AND MARINE LIFE

Some people have voiced concern because some power plants discharge warm water back into natural water bodies. These power plants - whether nuclear or fossil-fueled - use cooling water in steam condensers. In a nuclear plant the cooling water is only about 19 warmer when returned to its source, and otherwise is harmless. Where the water source is large enough and cold enough to receive and assimilate it, like the Pacific Ocean, it has no significant adverse effect on marine life. The only appreciable change is that in the immediate water discharge area the balance between warm water species and cold water species of marine life may shift in favor of those liking warmer water. In fact, after 24 years of scientific study and many more years of operating experience, it is clearly established that marine life near PG&E power plants tends to be more plentiful

NUCLEAR POWER-CLEAN, ECONOMICAL

For both environmental and economic reasons, nuclear power is the solution to the electrical energy problem.

Most hydroelectric power resources are already developed. Fossil-fueled steam electric plants consume scarce and increasingly costly oil and natural gas. Barring technological breakthroughs, geothermal energy can meet only a small part of future power needs. Fusion power is decades away. And other possible sources of energy, such as solar, tidal and wind power, are in experimental stages of development, and the latter two may never become practical for large-scale use. Coal can supply some help in California over the short run. But nuclear energy is the power source which has arrived. Nuclear power is economical. For example, the electricity produced at PG&E's Humboldt Bay Nuclear Power Plant for $2.00 would cost $17.20 at a plant burning low-sulfur oil, at today's fuel prices.

Moreover, nuclear power generation is clean. Unlike burned fuels, it releases no combustion products into the environment

NUCLEAR POWER AND INSURANCE

Some people say that private insurance companies won't cover a nuclear power plant. That's false. Private companies provide $110 million worth of liability insurance for each nuclear power reactor location. There have been no claims against nuclear power reactors. In fact. the insurance companies have been refunding part of the premiums paid by the utilities. In addition, utilities pay the federal government for indemnity insurance coverage of $450 million for each reactor location.

The federal indemnity program was created by Congress in 1957 (Price-Anderson Act) to help encourage development of a nuclear power industry in the U.S. It has been good business for the taxpayers. And it gives the public greater protection than separate homeowner insurance policies could provide. That's one of the reasons why your homeowner policies have a nuclear exclusion clause.

in indemnity payments from utilities—about $90,000 a year per large reactor—and has never paid out one cent. No claim has ever been filed. The government has collected millions

NUCLEAR POWER AND THE PUBLIC INTEREST

One of the big PG&E nuclear units at Diablo Canyon is planned for service next year, and the other unit in 1976. But it will take about ten years to build additional nuclear capacity - including the time it takes to find and acquire suitable sites and obtain clearances and approvals from more than 30 governmental and public agencies.

Every year of delay exposes all of us to shortages and higher rates, and further drains our diminishing fossil fuel resources.

The energy problem simply must be solved, and nuclear power will go a long way toward solving it. Electrical energy is essential to everybody, and especially to the young people who will be forming families and needing jobs. We don't intend to relax in our efforts to provide adequate and reliable service for all our customers in the future, just as we have provided it in the past. You can help now by conserving energy at home and on the job.

If you or anyone you know would like more information on nuclear power, PG&E will be pleased to provide it. Just write: PG&E Nuclear Information, 77 Beale Street. San Francisco, California 94106.

Bluegrass Festival Was 'Mellow' Event

For those who made the pilgrimage to San Rafael this weekend, the Golden State Country Bluegrass Festival was, as one put it, "very mellow event — with beautiful peo-

A sizeable throng of footstompin' country music enthusiasts flocked to the Marin Veterans' Memorial grounds at the of the top names in bluegrass, while kids, dogs, dancers and Frisbee-throwers frolicked in the background.

Some paid $22.50 apiece for a three-day ticket for the festival, more than 27 hours of country music. A single-day's ticket sold for $8.50, and a horde of would-be patrons clustered at the gate, dismayed at what they considered a prohibitive

The high ticket price, as well as a week of rainy weather that cleared just hours before the gates opened Friday, combined to keep festival attendance far below previous forecasts. The three-day attendance was perhaps 12,000; festival promoters had predicted up to 30,000 would pass through the fairgrounds by last night.

"It'll be 30 days before I know how much money we've lost," said Paul Lammers, a spokesman for Jewell Productions, the Portola Valley-based firm that organized the event. that it went smoothly.

with $2 in his pocket. Rather than miss out due to lack of funds, however, Skinner sat in front of the gate, panhandling quarters from passers-by.

He carried a guitar, and strummed out tunes as his pile of ticket money slowly grew.

He, like nearly all the men, was clad in faded blue jeans Civic Center, to listen to some and a denim work shirt. As the day wore on, most shed the shirts to get a tan from the spring sun. Women wore skimpy tops and shorts, or the customary pair of blue jeans.

Even some of the special security police hired for the concert were clad to fit the mood. One jovial officer, directfrom near the main gate, was decked out in white jeans and a hand-painted sweatshirt.

Those buying three-day tickets received free tenting privileges, and many chose to set up camp on the grassy peninsula surrounded by the Civic Center

At night, campers would gather with their own instruments and "jam" for a few more hours before turning in

Members of the audience seated to the east of the stage, downwind, were treated to a variety of pungent odors, ranging from marijuana to beer to moldy dog, depending on how the breezes shifted.

One young blind man, David Konkel of Berkeley, and a friend, William Coykendall of Daly City, brought along a picnic like most of the audience, and sat happily Saturday afternoon sipping wine from a boda bag, and munching on salami and cheese sandwiches, as ing his staff by walkie-talkie group after group took the stage for its session.

Kondel, a serious student of all kinds of music, but a particular fan of bluegrass, drew a close distinction between country-western and bluegrass -'Country is the same as bluegrass, except using electric instruments," he said.

Country Music Festival Keeps Bluegrass Fans Stompin' Feet

By GEORGE NEVIN

Four thousand country music fans raised the dust last night as they danced in a foot-stomping, knee-slapping finale to the three-day Golden Gate Country Bluegrass Festival.

Two Postal Officers Reassigned

Reassignment of the Ross and Inverness postmasters and temporary assignment of officers in charge of those post offices was announced today by Hugh Cassidy, San Rafael sectional center postmaster. Naudaine Shelton, who has been Ross postmaster since 1972, is returning to San Rafael for a new assignment, at her reqquest, Cassidy said.

Shirley Boulet, postmaster at Inverness since last year, will be officer in charge at the Ross Post Office until appointment of a new postmaster there. Theressa Giammona, a clerk in the Point Reyes Post Office, will be officer in charge at Inverness.

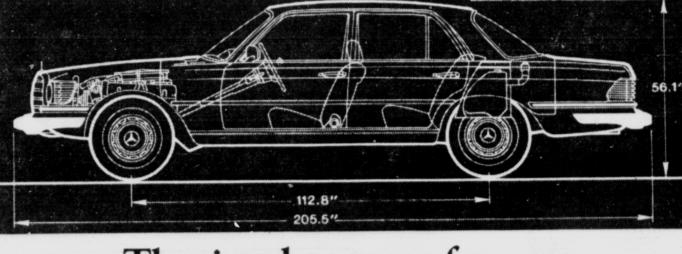

The reassignments were effective Saturday.

Miss Shelton was director of personnel at the San Rafael Post Office before assignment to Ross and asked to return to the larger office, Cassidy said. 'She has done a tremendous job at the Ross Post Office," he commented.

Last week, the Ross Post Office books were examined by team of postal inspectors. Cassidy said the examination disclosed errors in bllkkeeping methods but none in handling of money or records.

'Righteous wrath'

Nixon News Stance Hit By Cronkite

ATLANTA (UPI) Television newsman Walter Cronkite charged the Nixon administration yesterday with conspiring to suppress the news media which he said should "stand up in righteous wrath.

The CBS newscaster said the administration w h i c h he blamed for "divisiveness" in the country, was "indulging in a conspiracy" in response to heavy news coverage of Watergate and other government

The normal adversity between the press and government has been pushed by this administration," Cronkite said at a news conference before addressing the Georgia County Commissioners Association.

He said the administration was focusing its alleged attack recently on his network.

Cronkite denied reports that press credibility was at an alltime low. "I think it's a political issue," he said. "It may, in fact, be at an all-time high.

The veteran newsman said the press was "far more responsible and far more serious than ever in the past," and labeled charges it was overplaying Watergate "ridicu-

"The only problem is they didn't play it up enough in the beginning," Cronkite said. "It took diligence by a single newspaper to do something I think $ most of the press should have

He said his network did a three-part series on Watergate last October because he didn't think the public was learning enough about the scandal.

Answering a question about whether President Nixon was restoring his popularity with recent good will visits across the country, Cronkite said the only thing that would increase his following was a thorough investigation of the scandal and the vindication of the President.

The award of the contract, if it be awarded, will be to the lowest responsible bidder whose propos-al complies with the requirements prescribed. The award, if made will be made within 45 days after the opening of the proposals.

The Board of Supervisors has made a determination of the pre-vailing rate of hourly wages applicable to the work to be per formed. Copies of this determination are on file in the office of the County Clerk, Civic Center, Room 315, San Rafael, California, and are available to any interested party upon re quest. Copies may be obtained from the Department of Public Works, Room 304, Civic Center. The Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin reserves the right to reject any or all bids The proposed contract is under and subject to Executive Order 11246 of 24 September 1965 and to the Equal Employment Opportunity and Federal Labor Provisions

All labor on the project shall be paid no less than the minimum wage rates established by the U Secretary of Labor. Each Bidder must supply all the information required by the bid documents and specifications. The EEO requirements, labor provisions and wage rates are included in the Specifications and bid documents and are available for inspection at the Office of the County Clerk, Civic Center, Room

315, San Rafael, California.

Each Bidder must complete, sign and furnish with his bid a "Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities" on Street Facilities" and a Statement enti-tled "Bidders Statement on Previous Contracts Subject to EEO Clause" as contained in the Bid Proposal. Contractors and subcontractors who may be awarded a contract of $10,000 or more will be required to maintain an affirmative action program, the standards for

drastic profit drops in the first quarter of this year could pave the way for another fall round of auto price hikes before the 1975-model cars are introduced in September.

General Motors Friday said profits were off 85 per cent in the first three months of the year. Chrysler Corp. was to issue its financial statement for the period later today, followed time this year, in hopes of by Ford Motor Co.'s report

Automakers have had a series of piecemeal price hikes in March and earlier this month, boosting freight charges and increasing the costs of options. But there have been no general increases since last December when the industry was exempted from price controls and hikes of up to $150 per car were

At that time, GM, Ford and American Motors agreed to no further increases "unless forced to by unforeseen economic events.

Whether GM, the acknowledged price leader in the industry, will choose to describe its drastic profit decline in that manner is not known yet. The company has already said it will boost prices of 1975 models by at least $130-$155 to cover the costs of adding catalytic converters to most models.

In their financial statement to shareholders, GM Chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg and President Edward N. Cole hinted broadly that further price increases are in the works.

They said the sales slump has 'bottomed out" and there are indications of better sales prospects for the remainder of the year. But they complained the company has not had enough relief from still-climbing costs.

While GM was adjusting the production level and product more to the changing automobile demand, the cost of material, services and labor climbed to historically high levels and there is every indication that

luck

After the Berlin premiere of the recent movie "Hitler: The Last 10 Days," a middleaged German housewife said: "It didn't catch his black magic." This image of Hitler had been conjured up before. In 1937, a dinner companion of the Nazi Feuhrer said: "When he stares at you with those burning eyes you know you are in the presence of a madman - a madman who is also a black magician.

Now a book has appeared which claims that Hitler was indeed a black magician - in a literal, not a figuarative sense. Written by former British commando officer Trevor Revenscroft, it alleges that Hitler's power for world domination came from a sacred relic - the "spear of destiny" that pierced Christ's side when he hung on the cross, - which was turned into an evil

The author's exotic theory is that Hitler saw the spear in a Vienna museum where it was kept on exhibit and intuitively realized its power as an instrument of sorcery. When he took over Austria, says Ravenscroft, Hitler seized the spear and used it in black magic rituals.

The book is utterly crazy, of course. But the image of Hitler as a black magician, as someone, that is, whose sources of power defy wholly rational explation, is a different matter. The modern world's most evil genius eludes neat, conventional categories.

Many shrewd observers marveled at the uncanny way he Conference Board, a research had of seeing through people

Previous "miracles" had contributed to the mystique of Hitler's charmed life.

In March, 1943, General Henning von Tresckew, in a conspiracy with other Wehrmacht officers, placed a bomb aboard the plane in which Hitler was returning from an inspection of the Russian front. The bomb was set to explode in 30 minutes. It didn't.

Later von Tresckow retrieved the unexploded bomb, examined it, and found that the mechanism had worked perfectly. The fact that the bomb had failed to go off he called an inexplicable thing.

A still earlier attempt to kill Hitler misfired. On Nov. 8, 1939, he suddenly left a Munich beerhouse ahead of schedule and minutes later a bomb in the speaker's rostrum went off killing seven people on the plat-

On another occasion, a Wehrmacht colonel with a live bomb in his pocket tried to get close enough to Hitler to blow both himself and the Feuhrer to bits. But Hitler raised his head, like a wild animal sniffing the breeze for enemies, and abruptly left the room. During World War II many German homes had a "Feuhrer shrine" complete with candles and a picture of Hitler. Stories appeared in the German press about how Allied bombs had wrecked a house but left the wall bearing Hitler's picture still standing. And in 1944, Nazi cabinet minister Robert Ley actually called for Hitler to be 'raised to our altars" as a god.

"I'm almost six-five and a half. This has plenty of leg room," said Gene Howington.

Gene Howington was part of a test recently conducted by Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute. The idea was to find out if the Toyota Mark II could give big car owners something new to turn to. So, Mr. Howington actually gave up his big car to drive a Toyota Mark II for three weeks.

Doubleheader Disastrous For Sonoma Nine

Hopefully, the number 13 will be a lucky one for the Sonoma State College baseball team.

That number represents the consecutive number of Far Western Conference losses the Cossacks have suffered after dropping a doubleheader Saturday, 7-1 and 8-4, to visiting University of California, Davis.

The Cossacks (0-13 and 9-22 overall) will try to break their losing streak next weekend in a three-game series at San Francisco State. Sonoma starter Gary Neville scattered six hits in a fiveinning effort in the first game, but was betrayed by four errors for four unearned runs.

In the nightcap, the Aggies jumped on Cossack starter Perry Kozlowski for eight hits in six innings, including three dou-

The Importance Of Bond Ratings

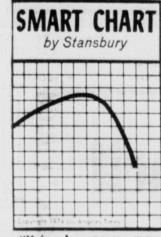

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Could you explain the are pledged as security) or as importance of bond ratings?

Q. Where can I find information on bonds? - P.C.

A. Ratings give the potential bond investor some indication of the comprative quality of the various debt offerings available for purchase. The three companies which rate bonds are: Standard and Poor's, Moody's and Fitch. Their ratings are based on several factors, including the issuing company's ability to generate sufficient earnings to cover interest, the financial strength of the corporation, the marketability of the bond issue and the indenture under which the bond is issued.

Bonds are offered under first mortgages, second mortgages, as collateral trust (in which assets other than real property American with romantic ideas says Cook's has had many once decided to emulate Hannibal's crossing of the Alps by elephant back. How did he go about it? He wrote Thomas Cook & Son, of course.

Cook's hired the elephant and an Indian mahout and arranged the tour for a not-so-modest fee.

That's only one of the curious episodes in the history of this oldest of all travel agencies, which is celebrating the centenary this year of its invention of the travelers check. Thomas Cook, born in a village in the English Midlands, also invented the travel agency and the packaged tour, the ocean cruise to the West Indies and the first organized tours to the Holy

Then there was the lady whose son wanted to see the magnetic North Pole. For $15,-000, Cook's flew the lad there in a chartered plane.

Another lady wanted to tour the south of France by train but, being claustrophobic, she couldn't bear the thought of all those tunnels. She paid Cook's to have her met by a limousine at the station ahead of each tunnel and drive her to the next station to await a later train.

In addition to other firsts. Cook's published the first travel magazine in 1851 and organized the first around-the-world tour in 1872, two years before announcing the first travelers' checks. It also operated sleep-

In the disruption of world travel caused by World War II Cook's came under control of the British government. A year ago it was sold to a group of British private investors. The American company is an autonomous subsidiary.

Jordan wants to make Cook's more of a two-way travel firm. For the past century most of its business has been serving Americans going abroad. "I want Cook's to become big in serving large groups of foreign tourists to the United States," Jordan said.

To accomplish that, he said Cook's will have to broaden its traditional "carriage trade" outlook and start marketing more modest-priced tours to serve 80 per cent of the travel market instead of the top half.

Lights Of Rafael Makes Plans To Expand Into New Building

been operating at 818 Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael across the street from Graham's Lumber, plans to expand this fall into a new building and deal in lampshades and lamps, as well as hanging fixtures.

Owner Eugene C. Young, who has operated the business for nine years, said he hopes to move about October into a new structure to be built on the east side of Highway 101, at Francisco Boulevard and Tiburon Street, site of an old Arco station. The new building would double the size of his present store and allow expansion of his business into lampshades and lamps

Until recently, the bulk of the business at Lights of Rafael consisted of wholesaling hanging fixtures to builders and department stores. With the new building and expansion of business. Young said he will switch his emphasis to retail trade, serving the do-it-yourself

MOUNTAIN HOME Gift Shoppe just opened for business at 808 Panoramic Highway under new owners, Hal and Carol Knopp of Larkspur.

It is located at road level at the entrance to the Mountain Home Restaurant, which has been operated by Mr. and Mrs. Pat Vincent for about 27 years.

The new gift shop offers leather goods, paintings, sculptures, pottery, incense, trail maps, many items handcrafted locally, some jewelry and imported clothes, and information on hiking and camping.

The Mountain Home Gift Shoppe is open Tuesday through Sunday. The Knopps, formerly in the semi-conductor industry in Sunnyvale, said they decided to get away from the pressures of the electronics industry and take over the gift shop. The shop, formerly called The Sleeping Maiden Trading Post, was operated by Michael Mitrovich until a month ago.

IT'S A WEDDING

Although the vows were traditional, the setting wasn't when John Thornton and Sue Rees were married Saturday while strapped to a power pole in North Des Moines, Iowa. Thornton, of Houston, Tex., is a foreman for a cable-TV firm and poles are his way of life, he says, "so why not get married this way?" Magistrate Gerald Levy (back to camera) performed the ceremony from a bucket truck next to the pole.

Two Sides Of The Water Coin

By PAUL LIBERATORE

The policy of a water district years.) to limit water supply and thus cut population growth and development was both supported and denounced Saturday at a day-long conference on water issues at Dominican College in San Rafael.

Before an audience of about 150 persons at Guzman Hall on the college campus, attorneys Tom Thorner and Albert Bianchi centered their discussion on the Marin Municipal Water District's controversial ban on new connections

Thorner, the water district's lawyer, argued that the moratorium is a necessary interim population control in the face of threatened water shortage forecast as early as February

"Two dry years and we've had it," Thorner said.

Bianchi, the San Rafael attorney who successfully challenged in court the legality of the water ban on behalf of the McCarthy Co., compared the threatened water shortage with the recent gasoline shortage.

Both, he said, were proclaimed by a handful of men. The only difference is that the declared gas shortage has not been tested in court.

'The water crisis has been taken to trial and proven to be a phony," Bianchi said. "There was not and is not a water

(Marin Superior Court Judge Warren McGuire's recent decision is being appealed by the water district, a process

Thorner countered with a court case involving Hidden Valley, Calif., a small town that formed a water district to prevent the importation of water for a developer's subdivision.

He quoted the seven-year-old decision: "In our view a water district may properly be formed and maintained for

Slayings At Record In Detroit

DETROIT (UPI) - With one day still left in the month. Detroit -the so-called "Murder Capital" -set a new monthly record for homicides today as the number rose to 78.

The toll surpasses the old record of 76, set last Septem-

Two killings yesterday pushed the toll for the year up to 252 — 11 per cent, more than the 226 toll for the same period in 1973. Detroit experienced a record 751 slayings last year. April's 78th victim was an 83-vear-old woman found stabbed in the left eve in her apartment. A scarf had been pushed into her mouth and wrapped around her neck.

The other victim, Albert Braswell. 32, was fatally shot in the stomach during an argument in the home of an ex-girlfriend

"The people of Hidden Valley are using this local public entity to control and determine for themselves their own water fu-

Bianchi maintained that questions of growth control belong with planning agencies and that 'a majority of the board of directors used the water crisis as a fig leaf to cover the nakedness of their real goal to take over the planning function of the county and other local agencies.

He pointed out that $4 million approved by voters in 1970 to build an intertie with the North Marin Water District is still sitting in district coffers, even though the project could increase the district's water capacity 12 per cent within one

In turn, Thorner remarked that local government has had to take responsibility for growth control decisions in the absence of direction from higher levels of government.

He cited recent studies, among them the federal government's "Population and the American Future," in an argument challenging the inevitability of growth and whether it is essential for economic Contradicting McGuire's decision, he said, is a court case involving the Goleta water district in Santa Barbara County.

State Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, delivered a postluncheon talk on long range 'No thinking person can goals and water resource planquarrel with population growth control," Bianchi said. "That is In it, he, too, questioned the wisdom of McGuire's decision. The senator also took issue with a recent court decision against the City of Petaluma limiting the construction of new dwelling units to 500 per year. "I think Judge (Ira) Burke is wrong." Behr said. "I hope his decision is appealed. A city can do better than to simply enact a master plan and zoning.

He called for planning power to be given to local agencies. "I believe people have the right to Maloney discussed the proposed limit future growth," Behr said.
